

We are a leading innovative supplier of installations in the field of electrical energy systems. Lindenberg-Anlagen GmbH is a manufacturer of diesel and gas generators for worldwide use in the marine and industrial sectors. Our portfolio ranges from standardised power generators to customised special units to complete turnkey power stations. In addition we work as a contract manufacturer for well-known customers, e.g. in the areas of steel construction, exhaust silencers and machine housings. Our special solutions and the quality of our products including the service have been appreciated by the industry for 70 years. At our location in Overath (near Cologne) we employ around 100 people.

Service Technician - worldwide (m/f/d)

Key tasks and responsibilities

Committed to innovative, environment-focused products, we are expanding within existing and new fields of business! Therefore, we are looking for dedicated and team-orientated personalities who are wanting to face new challenges. As part of our serviceteam you will put our GenSets into operation, and care for maintenance and service at our customer's premises. Part of your future tasks are:

- You advise and support our customers and their personnel in the installation of the systems supplied by us.
- You commission our systems on site, and you may also supervise the work of external companies
- You are responsible for compliance with safety regulations on the construction site
- You report to the Service Manager

What we expect from you

- Mechatronics engineering training, e.g. mechatronics technician, ideally supplemented by further training as an electrical technician
- Sound knowledge of electrical installation, electronics, PLC control and mechanics
- Independent and effective work organisation
- Strong customer-oriented behavior
- Good English skills

What we offer

- An interesting and varied scope of tasks in which you will be working independently
- Open and fearless culture, flat hierarchies and short decision-making processes
- The chance to grow with future markets and products
- Professional and personal development after an intense introduction period
- An attractive and performance-orientated salary

Our site in Overath is strategically well placed in the centre of NRW near Cologne, Bonn and Düsseldorf. The cities and surroundings offer many high quality cultural and leisure facilities and activities.
